The wicked witch

The wicked witch sent chills and shivers down the spines of a captivated audience of Romulus elementary school pupils last Thursday during the classic tale turned opera of "Hansel and Gretel." The opera, sponsored by the Romulus Parents Area Council, was staged by the Piccolo

Opera Company. In the RPAC's quest to bring the fine arts to the local schools—many extracurricular activities have been wiped out because of economics—members of the RPAC are attempting to fill the cultural gap by raising money for such programs.

Unprecedented

Huron Township Board to back school millage

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

In an unprecedented move, the Huron Township Board passed a resolution in support of a school millage. The vote was 5-1.

The vote followed a presentation by School Supt. Gary Jackson who outlined the problems that Huron Schools face.

The resolution stated that after study and analysis of the financial problems of the schools, the Township Board supports the upcoming 3-mill request on June 13 and urges that the voters vote yes.

According to one veteran board member, it was the first time "in memory" that the Board has publicly supported a school millage.

The Board was apparently responding in a gesture of community solidarity in the current effort to provide money to run the financially pressed school system.

Huron School District was informed in a letter April 21 that its high school will be losing its accreditation, effective July 1. The reasons given by the University of Michigan Accreditation Committee related to shortcomings derived from a lack of money.

But, a board member noted later, the severity of the situation and the determination that the tax increase would be small, because of a state tax rebate, inspired the board's resolution of support.

Township Clerk Mary Lou Carey read the resolution to expressing the opinion of the Board and commented that she was "proud to do it."

Voting in favor were Township Supervisor A. J. Haener, Carey, Treasurer Chris Gamber, Trustees Bill Geierman and Gary Bates.

Voting against was Trustee John Puskar.

Puskar explained his vote, saying it stemmed from an "in-gut" feeling against any taxes. He said he would be glad to contribute a check for $100 to the school district, but out of obligation to the taxpayers who he represents he cannot vote for a millage increase.

In other business, a long discussion then ensued regarding the matter of dog licensing.

Trustee Puskar said it was unfair that those individuals who voluntarily offer to renew their dog licenses should have to pay a penalty when late.

Puskar made a motion that a moratorium on the penalty procedure should be implemented. The motion died for lack of support.

In other matters, Township Clerk Carey reported to the board that she has already been approached by two representatives of Cable TV companies seeking the Huron Township franchise.

Carey said the quick response was surprising since she has not even had the opportunity to complete her task force to research attitudes of Huron residents.

The Clerk had said at the May 11 meeting that it would take a minimum of three years after the establishment of an ordinance before a Cable TV system could be installed.

Carey said that the installation projection of the cable of one of the Cable TV representatives persuades her to revise her projection, without being specific, that Cable (See HURON Page 3)

Body found near school

Police hunt for suspect, clues in rape-murder

Romulus police have their first homicide of the year on their hands as they try to unravel the rape-gunshot murder of a 23-year-old Detroit woman.

The body of Floree Shine, of Westmoreland, was discovered early last Thursday morning by a school employee of Cory Elementary, behind the school. Police said that the victim had been shot twice.

Miss Shine, who resided with her parents in the northwest Detroit section, was last seen in Detroit in the 7-Mile area, Romulus police said.

"We don't know whether the victim was shot at the scene or somewhere else then conveyed here," said Det. Lt. Ken Kraus, of the Romulus Police Department. "In fact, we have very little to go on at this point." Police did say that the clothing the victim wore was that clothing she had on when she left her Northwest Detroit home. Police said that they believe the victim was sexually assaulted.

Anyone with information about the case is urged to contact the Romulus Police Department at 941-8400.

Post office

City Council approves motion for a full-service postal facility

Romulus wants a "full service" post office.

However, whether the city will obtain the facility depends upon a lot of factors. And cost could be one of them.

Last week the council, acting upon a recommendation offered by councilman John Lewkowicz and supported by Peter Bergeron, approved a motion "that the council go on record in support of the administration's request for a full service postal facility."

The council also singled out the site at Goddard and Hunt Street, presently occupied by a disbanded foundry, as the site for the future post office.

Romulus Postmaster Martha Wenzko is pleased with city council's action.

"I feel that the foundry site is a good one because, first, it will eliminate an eyesore, and secondly it is centrally located and is easily accessible for all of our residents."

Mrs. Wenzko, who has served as the city's postmaster since 1978, said that a "full service post office would solve many of the city's needs."

"I would like the city to get the best possible facility and service for our citizens," Postmaster Wenzko added. "A city the size of Romulus needs the best."

Romulus' present post office, located in a one-story structure on the corner of Shook and Bibbins, services more than 37,000 and has a delivery population of 52,000 which includes parts of Huron Township, Brownstown and Van Buren, according to Postmaster Wenzko.

At one time in its recent history, Romulus had over 100 postal employees and two buildings. However,

"We usually get complaints that we have no control over, we refer them to Taylor," noted Postmaster Wenzko. She said that a "normal number of complaints" would run between two to four per day. A "full service" station would allow Romulus to have its own carrier force stationed in the city. Package pick-ups as well as letter pickups would be provided locally, instead of a resident having to travel to Taylor for that service.

Devoted to Dad

Just how special is your Dad?

Sure you let him know every Father's Day, remembering when he fixed your broken roller skate, or skipped the Sunday afternoon football game to teach you the fine points of throwing the ball. Or the time he raved about your two-layer chocolate cake that was only two inches high.

Is he worth telling the whole area about? Would you like to see him featured in a very special Father's Day section Associated Newspapers will be publishing June 15 and 16?

If so, then send us his name, address, a telephone number where he can be reached during the day. We will be selecting 12 area fathers to be featured as our models for a photographic view of paternity. "Devoted to Dad."

Nominations should be mailed to Father's Day, Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich., 48184, by Monday, June 6.

Let your Dad know just how special he is by letting us know.

Belleville, Van Buren junk consolidation plans

The proposed consolidation election between the City of Belleville and the Township of Van Buren is "off".

The State Boundary Commission last week decided to cancel plans to hold an election for a consolidation charter commission thereby killing the proposal to unite these two neighboring communities.

Officials from Belleville and Van Buren traveled to Lansing to discuss the proposed consolidation with the Boundary Commission and after an hour-long debate the commission determined that there was not enough community support for the proposed consolidation.

In Belleville, business will go on as usual; however, Van Buren Township officials say that they will place on the board table a proposal to move the non-charter township to a chartered township in order to protect the township from future designs of annexation of township land, according to Township Supervisor, George Craven.

"We will have a hearing to determine whether we want to go charter township," Craven said. "A charter township would be protected from annexation or from anyone who has designs on any township lands." Asked if there was a community or were communities that covet township lands, Craven replied: "Not that we know of."

Craven pointed out that one major advantage of being a chartered township is that residents would have more control over their destiny and over township affairs, however, he added that the disadvantages include a possibility of higher taxes.

"A chartered township may levy up to five mills for operations without the vote of the people," Craven said, "and that may cause a problem in the minds of the residents."

"But, we will take the initial steps to place the question before the board of trustees and have them either reject or pass a resolution to put the question of a chartered township on the ballot of the next general election."

"Then, it would be up to the people to determine if they want it or not," Craven continued. "We have a legal opinion that states since the question of chartered township was turned down by a vote of the people in 1980, then only the electorate would have the right to change its mind."

Frank Pascarella, city manager of Belleville, said that he was pleased that the issue of consolidation was behind the city and the township.

"At this point in time I believe that it is the best thing that can happen to all of those concerned," Pascarella said. "The general apathy displayed by the citizens toward consolidation evidenced by the fact that no one wished to serve on the proposed charter commission points to that fact."

"Also, it was the general feeling of everyone who attended the Boundary Commission meeting that citizens both from Belleville and from Van Buren wouldn't support a Belleville-Van Buren consolidation move, so why spend all that time, money and energy for something which the general populace was definitely not in favor of?"

Pascarella and Mayor Justin Emerson, along with Craven and township clerk Delphine Dudick offered their opinions before the Boundary Commission who had the final say to scrap the consolidation election.

Huron to back school millage

TV may come to Huron even sooner.

But she cautioned that a reasoned, careful approach will be taken in any case since the Township stands to receive numerous community benefits in their selection of franchise. This she gathered from two seminars she attended in Lansing and Southfield recently.

In other business, Treasurer Chris Gamber advised the Board that a check for $33,813.10 was received in settlement of a suit against the Wayne County Drain Commission.

The payment concludes a dispute which began with a legal action July 2, 1976 against the Drain Commissioner over the assessment levy against the community.

Huron and other municipalities challenged the assessment and the suit went to the State Supreme Court which ruled six years to the day, July 2, 1982, that the Drain Commission must pay.

The amount of $362,445.48 was paid to the various communities.

Huron's amount will be applied toward the Angelo Moreno Associates settlement, which in this case Huron Township must pay.

Deputy Supervisor John Chihan, in his report, told the Board that procedures are "in order" for the installation of the new water main on Ellis St. in New Boston.

Chihan said that he has submitted application to the Wayne County Block Grant officials. He said that he will also be getting permits from the state and the Detroit Water Board so that bids may be made for the project.

The Deputy Supervisor said that he expects the Jobs Bill money, $84,653, between Aug. 1-15.

Hard-earned

Timothy Burke of Romulus, a student at Romulus High School, has been selected to perform with the International Jazz Band. He plays the Tenor Sax and is the son of Robert and Rosemarie Burke. Tim has been traveling to Blue Lake once a month since last fall to rehearse with the Blue Lake group. In addition to music, Tim is also interested in singing and sports.

The new water main will be 2200 feet in length, replacing the old main put in during the 40s.

Supervisor A. J. Haener asked and received authorization from the board to attempt to find funds to set up a demolition fund to clean up fire-damaged structures in the Township.

The fund would be an attempt to clean up certain eyesores in the community by instituting a procedure of legal notice to the owner to clean up the damage, and if the owner does not act after notification, the Township would do the work and bill the owner in the form of a lien against the house or other structure.

Haener also advised the Board that he and Township Engineer Jerry Jarrett were going to the Wayne County Water Board May 26 in an attempt to retrieve money that the Township lost when it was billed in early 1982 during a water break in a 12-inch pipeline just off Romine Road on Will-Carleton Drive.

The leak, a 3-inch hole, was discovered during an inspection by Huron Township Water Commissioner Paul Nagy in December, 1982. It was repaired in March.

"We lost 56 million gallons of water," said Haener, "which amounts to about $35-40,000."

The Supervisor said he would make a report to the Board at the next meeting.

Township Attorney Dick James, in his report, advised the Board that the formal agreement allowing Huron Township residents to tap into Brownstown Township sewer system along Inkster Road, is prepared and ready for signature by the Township.

James also advised the Board that he is in the process of revising the ordinance governing the operation of the Flea Market in New Boston, and that he will present this information at the next meeting.

There have been complaints brought before the Board from residents regarding the Market, particularly about overnight campers being used on the grounds by the merchants on the weekends.

In other matters, Trustee Gary Bates, also president of the Huron Township Chamber of Commerce, requested and received approval from the Board to construct welcome signs at entrances to New Boston and Waltz.

Bates said the signs would be a move to promote community spirit.

Treasurer Gamber reminded the Board and the public of the June 5 Lajko Park dedication at 1:30 p.m. There will be a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lajko, the parents of Robert Dennis Lajko, who died in Vietnam.

State officials are expected at the ceremony. The Huron High School band will perform. Refreshments will be served following the ceremony.

County faces lawsuit over dusty roads

Sumpter Township will join in a class action lawsuit, along with Van Buren, Huron, and Canton townships, if the Wayne County Road Commission doesn't authorize funds to chloride the townships' roads.

At its May 24 meeting, the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees authorized Township Supervisor Jim Reeves to enter immediately into a lawsuit on the township's behalf, should the Road Commission fail to take action at its next meeting on June 2.

"Sumpter Township doesn't have the funds to do the job itself," said Reeves, noting that in previous years the Road Commission had the township roads chlorided three times. Last year, the roads were only chlorided once, and this year the Commission has told the townships they'll have to come up with the funds themselves, Reeves said.

The cost of chloriding the roads comes to about $50,000 per application, according to Township Engineer George Wilhelm.

Reeves said he and the other township supervisors felt they had no choice but to go into the lawsuit to put pressure on the Road Commission. "We can't keep waiting. We've been talking with them (the Commission) for months," he said.

Chloriding is important, especially in summer, in keeping dust off the roads, Reeves emphasized.

Want to run for fun?

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville will sponsor and host a Sixth Annual Strawberry Run-For-Fun on Saturday, June 18.

There will be a 10 kilometer run and a One-Mile Fun-Run beginning at 8 a.m.

There is a $3 entry fee.

'Walk for Mankind' nets $3,500

A walk/jog-a-thon, sponsored by area churches, can be counted as a huge success as $3,500 was raised by the walkers, joggers and two rollerskaters, for world hunger.

The walkers, joggers and skaters got pledges for various amounts for each mile they walked, jogged or skated. These pledges totaled $3,500.

Cora Vandecar, Willow United Methodist Church, raised over $200 by herself. Laura Love of Romulus Community United Methodist Church raised about $190.

About 12.5 percent of the money raised went to "Rendering Emergency and Community Help" (REACH), a coalition of Romulus church and service agencies. 12.5% went to "The Food Closet", an emergency food agency at the Belleville First United Methodist Church and 50 percent of the funds will go to World Hunger.

First aid and transportation for those who could not complete the walk was provided by "The Kwik Helpers", a C B club.

The walkers from Romulus met at Romulus Community United Methodist Church and walked down Huron River Drive to Belleville's St. Anthony's Catholic Church and back to Romulus.

Belleville's participants met at St. Anthony's Catholic Church and walked down Huron River Drive to Romulus Community United Methodist Church and back to St. Anthony's.

The sponsoring churches included: Romulus Community United Methodist church, Belleville's Trinity Episcopal Church, Belleville's First United Methodist Church, Belleville's St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Romulus's Community Baptist Church, Romulus's First Baptist Church and Belleville's United Presbyterian Church.

Making everything beautiful

Niedermeyer, Steve Bossidis, Doug Isabell and science teacher Robert Cole put their talents and muscle to work to make the courtyard at the high school an inviting place.

'Everything is beautiful'

Students clean up courtyard

Everything is beautiful.

That's what the student government, the Plant Science and Building Trades classes had in mind when they jointly tackled the courtyard at Romulus Senior High School.

The end product was an attractive and scenic yard.

The Student Government, led by advisor Fred Coleman, designed and raised the funds to start the project.

Building Trades students under the guidance of instructor, Terrel Bird, poured a cement patio at the front lobby's door and a sidewalk to the cafeteria.

Robert Cole moved his Plant Science classroom outdoors for some practical experience to landscape the adjoining area. Plants were purchased with funds provided by Student Government, and "donations from anyone who would give us some", Cole said.

The sidewalk is bordered by a row of white and burgundy colored roses, for the school colors, and backed by a row of pink flowering almonds.

The cafeteria wall is planted with Boston Ivy. Cole plans to fill the area under the window wall with iris bulbs donated by his mother. Climbing roses fill one corner and beds of annuals are set into the open space. In the center is a 12-foot crabapple tree.

In time the section will be filled with spring-flowering bulbs, shrubs, perennials and some evergreens. The courtyard is visible from each of the inner hallways and will provide a beautiful panorama from every angle.

"Attitudes too often depend on what a place looks", added Cole. "Everything positive the school can do will help students develop pride in their school."

Cole and his wife, Laura, are working with the students to create a showpiece. "When we're done here "people will be wanting to feature our courtyard in garden magazines."

Students who have been especially helpful include: Ron Downey, Doug Isabell, Cindy Neidermeyer, Sherry Breeding, Steve Bossidis, Tim Bird, Andy Trill, and Mike Wojtylko.

Next year the Student Government plans to use the undeveloped section for a picnic area on a patio built by Building Trades students. Donations of used picnic tables that can be restored are welcomed.

Coleman believes the courtyard will become a favorite spot for students to visit and socialize when they are not in class, and a booster to morale and school spirit.

Students will police the area to keep it clean. "Students have taken good care of what's out there," said Coleman. "While they walk by a piece of paper in the hallway, they stop and pick it up in the courtyard," he continued.

The Student Government works hard on Homecoming, but its major annual project is a Christmas party for children. Last year they spent $3000 to give 122 boys and girls a Christmas party to remember. Students hold an annual Walkathon to help raise funds for their activities.

Coleman feels the Student Government "has done a good job this year" and expressed his appreciation to all who participated and especially to Pam Kasenow, president and Kim Vavro, secretary for their excellent support in all of the functions.

Graduation is a family affair in Romulus

For the Marcum family, adult graduation in 1983 was a family affair.

And, the pride of graduation is always intensified when it can be shared with a family member.

During Romulus Adult Education's 12th annual cap-and-gown ceremony, five sets of family members participated in the 1983 class of 85 graduates.

This represents an unusually high number of family combinations, according to community education director Bill Smith.

"Each year we traditionally graduate one or two family sets, the most common being mother and daughter. It is an especially satisfying event for the entire family, and it adds a special touch for our teaching staff as well."

The family groups represented in this year's adult ceremony were Brenda Smith and daughter Tami Marcum; Vernell Brown and daughter Sandra Sandlin; husband and wife Donald and Elizabeth Cochenour; sisters Veronica Doty and Monica Glaze; Pearl Hamlet and son Oliver Hamlet, Jr.

A standing-room only crowd of 600 guests paid tribute to the adult graduates in the senior high school's auditorium.

Edward Wilkerson, trustee of the Romulus Board of Education, welcomed the enthusiastic crowd and presented the diplomas and G.E.D. certificates. Adult counselors Earl Cornett and Karen Samples presented 2 "Lorena Burton Memorial" awards for special determination to Geraldine Westbay and Vernell Brown.

Program director Bill Smith introduced special guest Judge James Stone who was recognized for his contributions to the program's study of local government and the legal system.

Two additional guests of honor represented the City of Romulus and were acknowledged for their effort in coordinating Michigan Week festivities in Romulus.

These guests were City Councilman Pete Bergeron and Recreation Director Dennis Davidson. Fittingly, the adult ceremony was held on May 19, designated as "Education Day" during local activities for Michigan Week.

Musical inspiration for the evening was derived from familiar chords of "Pomp and Circumstance," the time-honored musical selection for graduations everywhere. Music was provided by the Romulus Senior High Concert Band, under the direction of Henry James, Jr. Following the ceremony, new graduates were honored by their friends and families with a dessert and social hour.

Con artists at work Swindlers always on the prey

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a series of articles written by Cathy Horste, chairman of the MSFWC Crime Prevention Division and police officer for the Veterans Administration).

By CATHY HORSTE

Of course, he will re-deposit the money to your account, and he thanks you very much for helping him. When you give the money to the con artist posing as the officer, he goes back in the bank front door, and right out the back door with your money. He doesn't work for the bank, and he makes his living by cheating the honest people who fall for this trick.

The "Pigeon Drop" is usually worked by two or more con women. The first swindler pretends to find a money-filled envelope or wallet lying near your feet on the street.

The swindler's partner walks up and demands that the three of you split the find. They insist that you hold the found money (what could be more honest than that?) and all you have to do is let them hold a little "good faith" money of your own.

The con artists will then convince you to hold the money for 30 days, and if no one claims it, you are all to meet again in the same place to split up the found money. The con artists will usually wrap up the found money for you, and in doing so, they "arrest" the crooked teller.

You leave with a worthless bundle of trash, and they depart with both the "found money" and your "good faith" money.

Do you wonder why they call this scam the Pigeon Drop? Because, by the time you get suspicious, the con artists are long gone with your money, and you are the pigeon.

Summer season is prime time for con artists. Rigged carnival games, and phoney drive way blacktop schemes abound. The most strongly advocated prevention technique is to make sure that you and everyone you know, especially senior citizens, are aware of how swindlers work. Always beware of strangers offering secret or get-rich quick propositions. Be especially careful of any deal which must be acted upon immediately.

Remember, EVERYONE believes in Santa Claus, of course, but very few real people will give you something for nothing.

If you are approached by someone who may be pulling a fast one, stall to keep the person or persons nearby, and immediately telephone the police. If the deal is an honest one, it will withstand the scrutiny

Are you interested in more information on crime prevention? If so, contact Officer Cathy Horste, 699-2003.

Views On Dental Health

By PHILIP MEIZELS, D.D.S.

THE ROUNDHOUSE BRIDGE

The roundhouse is one of the most difficult esthetic procedures in dentistry. All of the teeth in one jaw are joined into a fixed bridge. It is generally suggested when the remaining teeth are weak and the best hope for maintaining them (and the replacements for the missing teeth) is to encompass them into one solid unit. "United we stand. Divided we fall."

Like most fixed bridges, the roundhouse is done in either porcelain fused to metal or acrylic veneers. The acrylic veneer is lighter and more flexible, but will abrade and discolor. The porcelain fused to metal will retain its color and texture, but is heavier. The teeth must be ground parallel to one another so that the fit is passive and true. This is particularly important with porcelain fused to gold, because if the bridge does not fit smoothly, pressure from within the crowns could cause the porcelain to fracture.

A roundhouse can be done in sections, with the individual bridges interlocked, but the greatest support for loose teeth occurs when the bridge is one solid unit.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of PHILIP MEIZELS, D.D.S., 9840 Haggerty Rd., Belleville. Phone 697-4400.

'Jobs for Youth'

County is seeking applicants for 200 summer park jobs

The Office of the County Executive of Wayne County, William Lucas, will be sponsoring 200 jobs this summer for economically disadvantaged youth age 18-21.

The eight-week summer program to begin June 20 will place young adults at county park sites in positions as recreational/maintenance aides and supervisors.

The pay ranges between $3.35 to $5 hourly for 20 to 40 hours weekly.

The federally-funded project will contribute to beautifying the county's park system, thus benefitting the community while supplementing family incomes.

To qualify, you must be a resident of Wayne County (excluding the cities of Detroit, Dearborn, Livonia and Downriver communities — they each sponsor similar programs), unemployed at least seven days or underemployed based on family income and size criteria established by the U.S. Poverty Guidelines.

Successful applicants must also be able to meet other requirements set forth under the Job Training Partnership Act of 1982.

If you are interested and meet the qualifications, please contact Jay Parker at 224-7240 for further information.

Baby-sitting clinic scheduled

A baby-sitting clinic for children 11 years of age and older will be offered at the Oakwood Hospital-Peoples Community Hospital Authority Health Center.

It will be presented on Wednesdays, June 1, 8, and 15, at the Health Center, 17000 King Road at the corner of Allen, Brownstown Township, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Those completing the three sessions will receive a certificate as part of this approved Red Cross course, which has a $1.50 charge for information materials.

Because of limited space, reservations are needed. For more information, call 479-1420.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Ah, the mystery of the Casbah, the magic of Morocco — all reflected in a refreshing salad of sliced oranges, red onions, and oil-cured olives. A big pinch of cumin in the oil dressing adds foreign intrigue.

Leftover rice in the refrigerator? It doesn't take magic incantations to turn it into delicious rice pudding — just sugar, grated lemon rind, vanilla, milk, and an egg. Bake in a moderate oven until set.

Lovely dessert pairs oranges and ice cream. Cut oranges into 8 wedges (almost to the base) and peel skin from fruit. Spread open and place a small scoop of ice cream in the center of each orange. Top with orange marmalade softened with a little Grand Marnier or orange juice.

potpourri

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

Put yourself in a musical mood since this week's "potpourri" could well be hummed to the tune of the commercial ending with "... oh what a relief it is" or, more nostalgically, "The party's over..."
The wedding's over — and it's with mixed reactions that the bride's mother faces the aftermath. As the youngest bridesmaid said as the festivities concluded, "I just don't want it to end!" And, yet, there's that feeling of release — that deep sigh that comes accompanied with "Thank God it's over" (and thank you, God, for its success).
The sad part is that it's all in the past and much too soon when you consider the months and months of planning that go into an event that is so fleeting in its mere hours of fulfillment.
It really is quite a letdown — except for those good, good buddies who keep it alive just a bit longer. With their phone calls and notes and face-to-face encounters, they help relive the big moment and prolong its niceties for just a few more days. (If you've never even thought to call the bride or her family after you've attended a wedding, it's probably because you've not been involved in one yourself. It's a very, very meaningful gesture and one that will be long remembered.)
It's now six days (as this is being written) after our "M's" (middle daughter's) big day and we're settling down to an almost-normal pace once again. "O" and her little family and "Y" have returned to Illinois, our English guest is back to his world travels and the newlyweds are off on their honeymoon abroad. We, in turn, have another "boarder" — Mollie Pooch, "M's" little blonde cocker who's paying us a return visit while his mistress is away.
The wedding cake paraphernalia has been returned to the maker-of-beautiful-confections; the clips from the pew markers, the aisle runner, the tuxes have all gone back; the remainder of the centerpieces have been distributed (one of our favorite friends having undergone emergency surgery that very day), the balances on a few bills have been checked off and we're now giving ourselves a few pats on the back for weathering so well.
There are a lot of headaches connected with putting on a wedding and only those who've been through one (from the bottom floor up) can identify with the pride, pain and pitfalls that go hand in hand with such an occasion. The frailties, kindnesses and nastinesses of human nature play an all too important role in the success of such a day and those who are genuinely happy for you and share in all the beauty of the occasion thankfully outweigh the negative attitudes that manage to show through. Weddings can be a revelation, (a time for identifying friend from foe) and can put you alternately on cloud 9 or right in the pits.
Fortunately, there's more to laugh (than cry) about and some of the snickers come with the "funnies" — the crazies that seem to always happen at "gonna-be-perfect" events.
At our Friday night rehearsal we suddenly found a stranger in our midst (and I do mean midst) — a blue-jeaned-work-shirted fella quietly but busily mouthing his beads (rosary, for clarification.) He very nonchalantly sat there saying his prayers, quite oblivious (?) to the fact we were having wedding practice. We joked about it later and offhandedly remarked, "Don't laugh, he'll probably be at the wedding tomorrow."

And — by the way — that local character was front and center as he marched to the altar with our guests to receive communion. He wasn't alone, though, since his female counterpart was walking the side aisles saying the stations right through the nuptial mass. (Those in the know will identify with these two modes of prayer; for those unfamiliar with either, ask any Catholic.)
Another slightly jarring note was the little voice that said (in a panic), "I gotta go to the bathroom!" just as the good padre got down to the nitty-gritty of the rite. The voice's grandparents looking askance at each other and knowing they couldn't handle the detail, just quietly ignored the situation until progressive fidgetiness, the peeling of his new wedding blazer, and the ups and downs, backs and forths that come with a little kids' "needing-to-go" telegraphed their S.O.S. His grandma finally whispered to the adults behind to get that poor tyke off to the W.C. (We're using the British version for toilet since it was our English friend who "volunteered" to pull that duty.)
Yours truly had been able all along (nearly a year) to commiserate on the woes-of-a-wedding with her counterpart (and namesake) in the neighboring Chamber office. With her son and my daughter being married just one week apart, we were able to compare notes, share ideas, find solutions to problems and moan and groan over the biggest pain of all — not being able to find our dresses!
I had an advantage in getting a wedding preview — paying rapt attention to her proceedings on the 14th. She, in turn, had the smug satisfaction of looking back and knowing all her doubts and worries were behind her.
Now it's all in retrospect — a picture perfect day sandwiched between two rather miserable spring offerings; a young woman turned into a fairytale bride; her sisters and best friend lovely accompaniments; the bridegroom resplendent in his dinner jacket (and rather unorthodox socks); the ceremony solemn yet joyous and touching; the soloist magnificent with his "Ave Maria" (it gets me everytime — goose flesh); the flowers, the pealing wedding bells, the smiles, the tears.
But mostly it was the people — those near and dear to us and those we were meeting for the first time — who, with their smiles, big grins, enthusiastic handshakes, hugs and ego-boosting compliments, added their own blue sky and sunshine to make it a truly perfect wedding day.

BRINGING OUT THE ANIMAL FOR TRIVIA BUFFS

- The only birds that can fly backwards are hummingbirds.
- A male swan is known as a cob; a female swan as a pen.
- There are over 250 species of marsupials, animals who raise their young in the mother's pouch.

THE BOTTOM LINE: It is only fair to judge people and stained glass windows in their best light.

Belleville's class of 1933. Recognize anyone? BHS classmates meet in Saline Two dozen gather for 50th reunion

When Belleville High School's class of 1933 gathered recently for its 50th reunion, reminiscences not only covered the past but the fact that the group was the only class to be graduated in the month of May. That was because of the Depression and the fact there were no funds to keep the school open longer.

A half century later, history is doing a repeat of itself with the economy in a recession and schools facing shorter school days, fewer teaching personnel and the possibilities of closings.
But all negative thoughts were quickly dispensed with once the group of two dozen got into catching up with one another. All this was due to the digging and delving done by the reunion committee: Verdys Jahneke Shephard, Gertrude Young Harris, Anne Bitnar Blazek and Melvin Budd, all of Belleville, and Robert Hay of Indian River who served as emcee.
In order to make this a meeting of friends and not strangers, the initial invitation asked that each person send a short resume of his or her life since graduating. These replies were, in turn, made into a souvenir booklet, some eight pages of 8x11 sheets sandwiched between maroon covers tied with gold yarn, the class colors.

Of the 36 seniors receiving their diplomas back in 1933, two-thirds showed up for the party; seven were deceased, three couldn't be located and one, Allen Salaske, had to return to Florida due to an emergency.
Eight of the group were from Belleville with others arriving from Tawas City, Indian River, Plymouth, Wayne, Allen Park, Prudenville, Dearborn Heights, Grand Ledge, Ypsilanti and Wyandotte.
Coming the farthest distance was Viola Feitel Carey of Santa Clara, Calif. Other out-of-staters were Helen Gleason Case of Forest City, Fla.; Forest Shirley of Valrico, Fla. and Franklin Van Schoick of Akron, O. The "Graduates" tallied a total of 64 offsprings from amongst those present.
A moment of silence was also observed for those who had passed away: Maxine Laffin, Edmund Newton, Elmer Winekoff, Todd Fry, Ernest Willet, George Rexin and Gordon Shunk.
Joining in the festivities were Merle Touse who had been school principal and also taught secretarial classes when the reunionists were in school, and his wife, Lucille.

Olga Yanke James of Dearborn and Inga Mullen Cooper of Sturgis were the only other teachers located but were unable to be present.
Careers among the 24 men and women ranged from school teachers to cosmeticians; automotive workers to plumbers, nurses to dieticians; from county to Federal employees; and school administrators and engineers to hospital staffers. The group also showed a diversity of hobbies, pastimes and avocations.

Festivities, which centered around a prime rib dinner at Leuthener's in Saline, were mainly of a nostalgic, remember-when nature, the most fun being in the recognition factor. With members wearing nametags, each bearing their senior pictures blown up from the class composite, some were easily remembered while others had to produce their names to be recognized. Fifty years of looking back filled the remainder of the evening.

Short subjects

Any time you're cooking a beef roast, be it on the outdoor rotisserie, in a conventional oven or in a microwave oven, it's important to use a roast meat thermometer to determine exact degree of doneness. The meat thermometer will register 140°F. for rare; 160°F. for medium; 170°F. for well done.

For easier carving, allow the roast to "stand" in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes after it has been removed from the oven. Since roasts usually continue to cook after removal from the oven, it is best to remove them when the thermometer registers about 5°F. below the temperature desired.

Whether it's beef burgers or beef steak you are cooking on the charcoal grill, a good fire is a key to success. To start the fire, pile briquets in a pyramid and ignite with the aid of an electric starter, liquid starter or kindling. The number of briquets needed will depend on the size of your grill and the amount of food to be cooked.

The fire is ready when the coals are covered with a gray ash and glowing in the center. At this point, spread the coals in a layer so that they are just touching or up to an inch apart.

It's important when grilling beef to maintain a low to moderate temperature throughout the cooking period. Temperature can be controlled by adjusting the grid, rearranging, adding or removing coals, adjusting dampers or draft doors and using wind-breaks.

our opinions

Here's one case that taxpayers won

Some six area cities and townships are richer today thanks to an elected official who refused to buckle under pressure by Wayne County and an attorney who refused to give up.

In 1975, the then treasurer of Romulus, John Lewkowicz believed that Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood didn't have the authority to earmark tax monies to offset the department's administrative costs.

In an unprecedented move, Lewkowicz, who now serves on the Romulus City Council, asked the city's legal counsel to place in escrow monies due the county drain commissioner and to file a lawsuit, asking the courts to determine whether fees collected to clean drains can be used for other than that purpose.

There was a long court battle, which was joined by the townships of Brownstown, Huron, Van Buren and the cities of Romulus, Lincoln Park and Riverview. To battle the county in the courts, Romulus picked attorney Harry Ellman, and its champion fought the case right up to the Michigan Supreme Court.

At the end the county succumbed. County officials agreed to an out-of-court settlement in which the communities involved would split more than $650,000 on a percentage basis.

To the victors went: Romulus — $146,899; Van Buren — $25,786; Huron Township — $33,813; Canton Township — $40,574; Brownstown — $82,115; Lincoln Park — $23,488; and Riverview — $9,768.

There was a stipulation attached to the settlement that all parties must agree to use the monies to clean drains in the communities involved in the lawsuit. The parties accepted.

And they can thank the successful conclusion in this case to Mr. Lewkowicz and Mr. Ellman, for not bowing to the county seat and fighting in what they believe was an injustice to the taxpayer.

Now, if there was only someone to take on the county to clean up county roads and to pay for the chloride treatment that has plagued this area...

How about it Mr. Lewkowicz?

Student expresses concerns about schools

EDITOR — I am a 9th grade student at North Junior High School in Belleville. I am very concerned about my education and my future. The lack of funds for education has really affected me, as well as my fellow students, in registering for high school.

This past week the students at North Junior High registered for high school. We had a difficult time filling out our schedules to meet the requirements to graduate, go to college, and prepare ourselves for the future. There are many courses we students would like to take, along with our required courses to prepare us for the field we have chosen.

The courses I was not able to take were French and data processing. The courses that many students were not able to take were band, choir, foreign language, creative writing, speech and drama, yearbook, newspaper, and physical education.

Because of the lack of funds and a shortened school day, it is almost impossible for us to receive the proper training needed for our careers. There are many decisions to be made when you are my age and are trying to prepare yourself for the job world. Without the funds there is a chance that only half of us will be able to continue on and reach our career goal as planned as an individual.

The cause of the lack of funds is the fact that not enough of our parents get out there and vote "yes" for the millage. Getting the millage to pass would mean so much to us. It would give us a sense of feeling that we are really going to have a chance to have the career and future we would like out of life. So many parents would like to see their children have more than they had, but not enough of our parents get out there and vote yes so that we can have the opportunity to have more.

Commitment to Canton

EDITOR — We would like to take this opportunity to thank your newspaper for the "Outstanding Job" of covering the Small Business People of the Year program for Canton Township.

It is obvious the commitment your newspaper has to the Canton Community. Although we do not support the community to receive awards, etc., it is certainly gratifying to be recognized for our efforts within the Community.

Additionally, we would like to thank your newspaper for the outstanding coverage and promotion of the Lions vs McDonald's Basketball Game for Muscular Dystrophy.

On several different occasions your newspaper was very helpful in publishing pictures and press releases to aid in keeping the event at Top of Mind within the Community and the surrounding Communities as well.

The success of the Basketball Game was directly affected by the consistent commitment and helpful attitude from your newspaper.

In conclusion, we certainly appreciate having the Associated Newspaper serving the Canton and surrounding Communities. Thanks for being a GOOD NEIGHBOR!

United States engaged in covert war in Nicaragua

Despite the automatic "no comment" response of Reagan Administration officials whenever the subject is raised, it is clear that the United States is once again engaged in covert war in Central America — this time the place is Nicaragua. The Administration's militaristic policies are not, however, creating any positive results. In fact, they are exacerbating the very problems the president says he seeks to cure.

As Ronald Reagan bemoans the miserable existence of the Miskitu Indians along the Honduran-Nicaraguan border, he is supporting a policy which will only worsen their treatment. As the CIA continues its attempts to incite rebellion among the Miskitues, their freedoms will be increasingly restricted. When they no longer serve a purpose, the Miskitus will be discarded by the U.S., just as the Montagnard tribesmen in the Central Vietnamese highlands were discarded following the war in Southeast Asia.

While Jeane Kirkpatrick complains about the size of the Nicaraguan militia and its destabilizing effect on the region, she is supporting a policy which causes the further militarization of Nicaraguan society, and greatly increases the instability of neighboring Honduras. Aside from pushing military intervention to the edge of all-out war between Honduras and Nicaragua, Administration policies are supplying building blocks for the development of internal revolutionary opposition to the Honduran government.

While William Clark lambasts the Nicaraguans for violating international law, he is supporting a policy in violation of the United States Charter, as well as that of the Organization of American States which provides that "no state or group of states has the right to intervene, directly or indirectly, for any reason whatever, in the internal affairs of any other state." American support of the Somocista rebels training at bases in Florida is, furthermore, a clear violation of the Neutrality Act, and the use of "advisors" along the Honduran-Nicaraguan border may well be in contravention of the War Powers Act.

All citizens should contact their Representative in Washington and express their distaste for these CIA military actions carried on in our name. Urge our U.S. Senators and members of Congress to end aid to the Somocista rebels, and support the development of a foreign policy consistent with democratic principles and American law.

About blackboard flu

In response to a lead article of May 18, on "Blackboard Flu" at Romulus Community Schools, I would like to take issue with Dr. Terrel M. LeCesne's statement that "Teachers who didn't have prior approval to be absent were told by the school administration that they must present a medical statement..."

I am one of the teachers who had a prearranged absence for May 12, with prior administrative approval.

Yet at 7 a.m. on that morning, I received a long distance personal phone call from Dr. LeCesne: 1) telling me to cancel my appointment (I refused); 2) accusing me of deliberately planning to be absent that day (I had not, but had simply taken the first date and time available, some two weeks after phoning the doctor for an appointment); and, 3) warning me that I'd better have a doctor's excuse when I returned to school (I did).

Furthermore, I again had to be absent for medical reasons on May 20, and as previously, prearranged my absence. Yet I again was told by an administrator that I must have a medical excuse. Contractually, such excuses are required only after five consecutive days' absence, not just one!

None of us teachers like being forced to work for a 22 percent pay cut, but when this is coupled with administrative harassment, it becomes intolerable.

I, for one, wonder how many taxpayers in the district would tolerate such a violation of their rights without feeling very maligned and extremely frustrated, especially when, so far as I know, there was no "blackboard flu" either planned or unplanned. Mine surely wasn't!

A story about today's youth

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

This is a different kind of teen-age story.

It's a story about a young man who wants to be a state trooper. It is a story that columnists enjoy writing about, and offer as proof that, although all is not well with the world, there is something good happening each moment of the day.

The story is about Craig Medon, a 17-year-old Belleville High junior who is employed by Burger King, at the Rawsonville, I-94 Expressway restaurant.

Craig also wants to become a state trooper and has served in the State Police Explorer program. It was probably from training provided in that program which gave him the courage to act the way he did last Tuesday.

While working in the evening at the restaurant, a would-be patron approached Craig and made a $1 purchase. The customer then gave Craig a "$20 bill" for the food. After making change, the man left the building, but Craig took a good look at the bill and noticed that the $20 bill was counterfeited.

He immediately leaped over the counter and ran after the man. Craig caught the man in the parking lot as he was about to enter his vehicle and questioned him. The man immediately attacked the 17-year-old youth, and the suspect managed to elude him and escape.

During the ensuing hassle, Craig managed to get the suspect's car license number and description. He phoned the information to the state police.

Thanks to Craig's alertness, state police later were able to track down and arrest a Dearborn man. The suspect was charged for attempting to pass a bogus bill and also for assault and battery.

"We're extremely proud of him," said Craig's father. "There is so much negative things written about kids and teen-agers these days, I thought the story would convince people that there are still a lot of good kids out there."

Last year Craig raised enough money to attend the State Police Enforcement Career Camp located in Petoskey.

This year, the Belleville Kiwanis Club has decided to underwire the expenses. His classes will include Law Enforcement, Narcotics Investigation, Crime Laboratory and Forensic Science.

"Craig helps out around the house. He helps his brothers and sisters with their homework and holds down a job while working out in a weightlifting program. He's a type of son any parent would be proud of," said Craig's mother.

Is Craig embarrassed by the sudden burst of publicity?

"Not really," said Mr. Medon. "He's mature enough to handle it."

Nice going

Burger King Restaurant manager Eric Paderi congratulates Craig Medon, an employee whose goal is to one day become a state trooper, for his excellent work in helping to apprehend a suspect that is accused of allegedly passing a bogus $20 bill at the Rawsonville, I-94 restaurant last week. Craig managed to jot down the suspect's car license number which led police to a Dearborn man's home and arrest.

Why recall Blanchard?

EDITOR — This is an open letter to the residents of Wayne and Westland.

As the President of the Metro Wayne Democratic Club I personally, and I hope each member of the Democratic Party, will join me, to denounce the so-called recall of our governor, Jim Blanchard.

The reasons are these: This state had the poorest credit rating than any state in the United States, and our governor had no choice but to raise the state income tax. Oh yes, he could have let the state go broke as some would have liked, but what would have happened to our old people who are in state homes?

What would have happened to the mental patients in state hospitals?

What would happen to the social programs such as food stamps, aid to the dependent mothers and children? Welfare and other social programs?

What about our state police and department of natural resources? Remember, the Reagan Administration has cut back on all these programs and the state has to pick up the slack. Also, what about the educational programs for the colleges and our local schools. Do you want them also closed?

And if your neighbor has lost his job and all benefits have run out such as unemployment and sub pay if any, he can't get a job so what is he to do but go on social services?

The question is, do you want to see your neighbor go hungry? Our governor has only been in office four months and he is trying to do the job he was elected to do. Folks think about these things before you sign a petition to recall him.

Small business key to community

EDITOR — Recently the Canton Chamber of Commerce awarded the "Small Business Person of the Year" award to Bob and Linda Card, owners and operators of both McDonald's Restaurants in Canton.

During Small Business Week, there is much attention directed at the small business establishments that offer products and services to the local residents. But there is something also equally as important, JOBS.

Yes, small business provides 87 percent of the jobs in America. And we want to thank all the residents who help keep our doors open by shopping locally.

A community is made up of several parts which make it work. We want to thank the groups that responded with their favorite small business persons. Namely, Canton Business & Professional Womens Club, Canton Jaycees, Township employees and the Canton Police Department.

Canton's people are truly the winners — thanks for making this project a success.

on Psychic Phenomena, to have been taken in this manner is most disconcerting. Though we went down just to have fun, I should have known better, for a person who has the actual ability of being able to pick up telepathically things from you, and who, on rare occasions, can, indeed, catch a glimpse of the future, would never tarnish those abilities by trying to "tell fortunes" on an assembly line. It cannot be done.

Clairvoyance, (seeing the future) to be true, has to be spontaneous, and it doesn't just pop in whenever one wants it to. Each of us is psychic. Each of us has hunches which are accurate, and each of us can foretell our own future, if we learn to listen to ourselves, and act on those hunches.

It demeans the whole realm of scientific investigation into this very real phenomenon to drag it into a production line, where the whole idea is to make a fast buck.

More on W-W school board

EDITOR — I have in my possession a letter written by Mr. Jim LeDuce, pastor of Kirk of our Savior and President of the Wayne-Westland School Board. The letter was distributed in the Dyer Center to the senior citizens.

In part it reads: "There is a real danger, similar to last fall, that those with selfish political aspirations and blatantly self-serving attitudes may gain control of the Board of Education."

Let me say right now, as the wife of a retired teacher, I know that statement is not true. I have several good friends who ran that race and lost, only because they didn't have captive audiences they could reach and many of you didn't bother to vote. That's where most of your tax dollars go!

They were interested, as is Patricia Hough and Glenn Anderson, in where your tax dollars are going and if they are being wasted.

Please attend the school board meetings.

Michigan Week, winner in Romulus

EDITOR — Judging by remarks given to me in person and by phone calls received, Romulus Michigan Week Festival was a huge success.

Attendance was greater than what the festival committee expected even with some bad weather.

When it comes to "thank you's," so many are deserving yet time and space allows just a few. Letters are being written to all volunteers who participated, but public thanks must be given to the following.

Mayor William Oakley, for getting the city involved and for his input as a committee member.

The City Council. Treasurer and Clerk for their volunteer help and moral support.

The DPW for a job that was not only well done, but done with pride.

W.G. Wade Shows for their professionalism, and especially for opening their rides to the handicapped and retarded children and adults at no charge and topped it off with free popcorn.

Jim Dennett and his Emergency Network for providing an excellent first aid station and Jim Shelton and the Kwek Helpers for the over night security.

Bill Smith for organizing the Romulus Community Pride, 10-K. I don't know how he can top this next year but somehow I've got a feeling he will.

Dr. William Bedell and the Romulus School Board for allowing the use of school property and for allowing the use of Bill Smith.

Henry James and the Romulus High School Band for entertaining us three times, two of those times were on Saturdays, an excellent group that we're all proud of.

The Recreation Department staff who took on additional duties during a time of year when the work load is the heaviest anyway. They not only performed their duties well during the normal work week but volunteered their personal time to work on the road run and festival.

The airlines' hotels and businesses who donated the prizes. First class all the way.

Ann Knoop of Capac Kasama who rescued the road run.

The Romulus Central Business Association for their sponsorship of this event.

Bill Simonds, RCBDA President, the driving force behind it all.

Joyce Palmer, RCBDA Secretary whose tireless efforts provided the back bone that was needed.

Gil White Sr., without whom we're all in the dark.

Dolores Nowell, for putting us on to Wade Shows and for her expertise and advice.

And the citizens of Romulus, for their support and attendance.

Finally to the residents, who made the festival come alive.

Appreciative awards' winner

EDITOR — With gratefulness and a hearty "thank you", I extend my sincere appreciation to the members of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inkster alumne chapter for selecting me as a "distinguished citizen" and honoring me at their "appreciation breakfast."

I have always strived to serve the needs of my fellow man without thought of a "reward" or "remuneration" and to be selected for such a prestigious tribute, is more than I ever expected.

I also want to thank the multitude of friends who attended the breakfast, and those who sent cards, letters, gifts and who phoned their "congratulations."

In quest of

*Admiration can't sum up
A fondness for your words
In coming years the angels might
By gathering the singing birds.*

*In honor of you, as favor to me
They'd choose a special day
And perch beneath your window sill
Until the break of day*

*Upon commend from One up high
Would ask by one awaken you
In bird like harmony*

*I know it may not come to pass
But that's the gift I'd give
To honor you and help you see
Your words forever live*

*This poem alas has a moral
Please note most rhymes have not
But I being different as I am
Do wonders most cannot*

*The bottom line is this I say
In regards to angels and birds
They compose the symphony
While man supplies the words
"To every poet that ever wrote,
Be sure a bird he heard."
But your poems my friend are a gift from God
While angels guide your pen
This surely shows his place for you
Among the world's great men.*

reflections

The psychic and I

You aren't going to believe this, but the other night I went to a psychic. It happened this way. A bunch of my friends thought it would be fun to cheer up one of us, who has been very sad and so we went down to a restaurant which had been advertising a psychic night.

There had been a time when this restaurant was very elegant but that night the lights were garish, all of the splendor had been discarded. We sat at bare little tables, and ate sad little sandwiches waiting for the psychics to appear.

And I should have known when I saw them sweep into the room, set up a little table, with a sign which read, "register here for a reading."

No class. No sweeping dresses, and long earrings, smoldering blackeyes. No crystal balls. Just a group of blue-jeaned people who claimed to have psychic powers.

Each of us was given a number written on colored paper, together with a unicorn sticker, which, apparently, was the product we received for the money we paid.

One young man came to our table, and asked "Who's my victim?"

Spotting the color on my card and the number, he said, "You're it."

I should have bolted then, and I really should have bolted when he said, "Well, it's obvious you aren't pregnant." And how he laughed at that joke.

"Well," I thought, "I might as well laugh with him even though it doesn't take a psychic to see that pregnancy doesn't usually come with white hair." So I laughed.

He placed a chair for me to sit down and then he began.

"Oh, you're sweet," he said. Naturally when one is about 25, one assumes that all little senior citizens with white hair are sweet, doesn't one? So I didn't give him a star for that.

"You have a very hard time making up your mind," he intoned.

Well, in a way he was right. I was having a hard time making up my mind whether to tell him to go read someone else or to continue. In no time flat I let him continue, and I felt real good about that since it showed he wasn't absolutely correct.

There were a couple of things he said next that could have been correct, or lucky guesses. I was willing to give him the benefit of the doubt until he told me I was 'over the hill.'

That was when I made up my mind that I was going to bop him one as soon as I could get my fingers untwisted from my purse, hanging at my side. He wasn't psychic enough to read my thoughts, for he gave out a great guffaw and said something about being senile.

That is when I grabbed his eyeballs and stared right in them. I was furious, but he didn't seem to get the message. So I got up from the table and turned with dignity, only to catch my foot in the chair and stumble half-way across the room.

"Haw, haw," he shouted after me. "I like to tease." If I had had the sticker ready I would have slapped it on his tongue, if I could have reached that far from where I had stumbled to.

For someone like me who has extensively lectured and written

A commencement speech

I've always thought that a commencement speech must be the hardest kind of speech to make.

People—important people, too (and often with better things to do)—spend hours writing commencement speeches. Speeches they know, before they even begin, very few people are really going to listen to—and virtually nobody is going to believe.

All across the country, millions of graduates are hearing thousands of commencement speakers saying things like "Reach for the stars!" and "Hold your heads up high!" (Which goes without saying if you're going to be reaching for stars), and, last but certainly not least, "Now go out there and show them the stuff Alfred E. Newman High—your Alma Mater (pause for reaction)—is made of!"

How many times have I sat through one of those interminable speeches and thought, "Wouldn't it be great if just one of those speakers had the guts to say, 'The world's a mess out there and I wouldn't wish this day on my worst enemy—but, as I've always said, better you than me!'"

Well, just last week I found in a book just such a speech. It was written by a famous writer (I'll tell you who later), and it was an imaginary speech written facetiously for a friend who was about to deliver your standard, canned commencement speech. The writer suggested to the speaker that this one might be more like it.

This is it, excerpted:

"I suppose you think I'm going to give you one of those 'You are going out into the world' speeches. Well, you're perfectly right. You are going out into the world and it's a mess, a frightened, neurotic, gibbering mess. And there isn't anyone out there to help you because all the people who are already out there are in a worse state than you are, because they have been there longer and a good number of them have given up.

"You, my young friends, are going to take your bright and shining faces into a jungle, but a jungle where all the animals are insane. You are going from delinquency to desuetude (state of disuse, my dictionary says) without even an interlude of healthy vice. You haven't the strength for vice. That takes energy, and all the energy of this time is needed for fear. And what energy is left over is needed for running down the rabbit holes of hatred, to avoid thought.

"The rich hate the poor and taxes. The young hate the draft. The Democrats hate the Republicans and everybody hates the Russians. No one can plan one day ahead because all certainties are gone.

"War is now generally admitted to be not only unwinnable but actually suicidal and so we think of war and plan for war, and design war and drain our nations of every extra penny of treasure to make the weapons which we admit will destroy us.

"And meanwhile there is no money for the dams and the schools and the highways and the housing and the streets for our clotting and festering traffic. And that's what you're going out to. Going out? Hell, you've been in it for years."

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if you could look at your world and say, and hear yourself— 'This was once true but it is no longer true. We must make new rules about this and this. We must

A family affair

Mom and Dad join kids in caps and gowns

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

At last Sally Kope feels "liberated." Cooking a meal is fun again. Planning a vacation a reality. And finally time is an ally not the enemy.

Sally, you see, recently graduated from college, joining her husband Martin and daughter Kimberly in this year's cap-and-gown set. Son Michael also is working towards his degree, which has become a normal lifestyle in the Kope family.

"It seems like someone has always been going to school," laughed Mrs. Kope, who earned a master's of social work degree from the University of Michigan. "I was the first person in my family to graduate from college... it was something I always wanted to do."

Martin, who will receive his master's in rehabilitation administration from DePaul University in Chicago on June 12, serves as director of human services for Goodwill Industries. He also holds a master's in divinity from Capital University in Ohio.

Kimberly, 24, earned a bachelor's degree in business administration last month from Eastern Michigan University and is seeking employment as a computer programmer. A former Miss Wayne and graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, she financed her education by working for a local vending company.

Other members of the Kope clan are Michael, 22, a junior at Michigan State University majoring in English; Kathryn, 15, a junior high student, and Lynn Andria, 20, who is mentally retarded and attends special education classes at the Wayne Living Center.

To celebrate their graduations, the Kopes will host what they bill as an "emancipation party" Saturday in their yard on Currier Street in Wayne.

They'll celebrate their achievements — a total of six college degrees — and the start of a new life.

"Attending school was a major commitment for us," explained Mrs. Kope during a break from her work as a social worker at Cornerstone Counseling Services in Taylor. "We realized the money involved (some $15,000 in college-related expenses last year alone), but I don't think we ever realized the amount of time that would be involved."

"There were plenty of 15-hour days, working on projects such as 80-page reports," she recalled. "We put off buying furniture, taking vacations and expensive activities. As a family we became very organized in sharing the cooking and the laundry... there weren't many evenings spent watching the TV."

"I don't regret a minute of it though," she said. "Going to school is the most valuable thing we've accomplished."

In her counseling work Mrs. Kope helps a broad range of persons, from students and families to the unemployed and mentally ill. It's a career she finds stimulating every day.

"My husband and I did not go into human services for material reasons," explained Mrs. Kope, who formerly worked as a substitute teacher and aide in the Wayne-Westland school system. "There's an intrinsic value involved that is not equated with earning power." Nonetheless, she's quick to point out that graduation has brought some material gains. "We've bought new furniture," she said with a smile, "and now we're starting to think in terms of having money for a change. "I really don't know what to do with all my time. A couple days ago I cleaned the house and cooked a turkey."

"Return Of The Jedi" marks the Return of The Magic — the magic that is Star Wars. All your old friends are back in this very satisfying close to the Star Wars trilogy; Luke Skywalker, Han Solo, Princess Leia, Chewbacca, and of course, the Laurel & Hardy of robots, R2-D2 and C-3PO.

But is the movie as good as its predecessors — Star Wars and The Empire Strikes Back? After all, until "E.T." came along those were the two biggest draws in Hollywood's history.

"Return Of The Jedi," is, without a doubt, as good as or better than the others. It's not as groundbreaking as was the original Star Wars, but the chase scenes in "Jedi" are 10 times what they were in the earlier film. And "The Empire Strikes Back" wasn't all that satisfying anyway; it left too many unanswered questions (which are, of course, answered in "Jedi").

One of the most notable things (apart from the tremendous special effects) is the acting; it simply wasn't all that good before. Harrison Ford was pretty good, but his stunts in "Blade Runner" and "Raiders Of The Lost Arc" have brought him a long way. Carrie Fisher has become a much more believable actress now, and Peter Mayhew — well, who knows? He's the person inside of the Chewbacca (aka Big Furry Rug) costume. At least, I hope it's a costume!

This brings us to Mark Hamill, who plays Luke. Watching "Star Wars" on cable a few weeks ago, I was taken aback by how, well, lousy his acting was. Of course, the script was comic book (but very good comic book), but Hamill just didn't seem to have it.

Now, however, he has emerged as perhaps the best actor in the entire company, exuding perhaps Alec Guinness. And maybe not excluding Guinness — we'll see in a few years.

Hamill's off screen stage work (he's currently on Broadway) has deepened his craft to new heights — which means he'll never have to take another part like the cop he played in the slovenly "Night The Lights Went Out In Georgia." He's now an Actor.

The actor in this two-hours-plus extravaganza is non-stop after the first 15 minutes or so, which is used to remind one of the circumstances we left our heroes in last time. The Speeder Bike sequence was drawing "Oooohs" and "Aaaahs" even from the older folks in attendance at the opening night showing, and I'm sure those in the first row had trouble not falling out of their seats during the rapid and rabid space battle. Whew!

A lot of criticism has been aimed at George Lucas (as it will any super-successful film maker) for the now well-known happy-ever-after ending. Critics (ahem, the bad ones anyway) don't like happy endings, they like to see an audience go through pain. Sure, a great film maker can make an audience cry, but so can onion odor-ama. It took courage for Lucas to show this much care for his characters and for his audience. Personally, I'd rather leave the theatre feeling up than being depressed.

"Jedi" also brings us quite a few new species to reckon with, such as the cute-as-can-be Ewoks, who look like teddy bears, but think they're tough guys; the Rancor monster, an almost prehistoric looking creature that lunches on those who fail to please Jabba The Hutt; and Jabba himself, the ugliest, fattest, slimiest crud ever to fly in space. And he drools constantly (not good for popcorn sales).

When the "Return Of The Jedi" was over, the long sold-out crowd gave the film a standing ovation, which was predictable. Two days later, it still did, which wasn't. Confused? Go see "Return Of The Jedi" and you won't be anymore — but you sure will feel satisfied.

The key to the future rests in the past

It was once the center of the city ... a monument to fine craftsmanship and a testament to the growth of Wayne as a metropolis. When it was originally constructed in the late 1860s, residents all took pride in the building of the grand Tremont Hotel ... a building that clearly demonstrated the growth and industry of their city.

But as all things do, the building grew old, and then fell prey to the machinations of progress. Modernized and re-modernized, the ancient structure saw the hotel rooms go and offices, a drug store, jewelry stores and many other tenants take residence within the walls and leave the indelible mark of age.

That aging process took a turn toward the past, however, when the latest owner of the building investigated the history and significance of the structure.

Kevin Griffin, general manager of Group W cable television in Wayne is a man with a strong sense of the worth of history, and it was his intent to restore the building chosen to house his operation to the condition it had enjoyed during the 1940s. With approval from the New York corporate offices of the cable company, local architect David Reitzel and his New York-based counterpart Ronald Feltenstein examined the building with Griffin and made their plans for the restoration.

"When we started into the work, began to tear down the exterior, we found the original 1860s brick," Griffin recalled with pride. "We stopped right there and took another long look at what could be done."

What could be done, the three agreed, with much care and careful ministration, was the complete restoration of the once elegant hotel. But the key to the success of their endeavor was the caution and attention to detail of everyone involved in the project. The contractor chosen for the job, Virgil Krueger and Sons, was also willing to expend the extra effort and care necessary to do what Griffin wanted done, so the reconstruction began in earnest last October with workers meticulously chipping exterior brick away by hand, using every caution to preserve the integrity of the original building.

"We did this in conformity with the City of Wayne downtown development plan," Griffin noted, "and we are very pleased with the results."

While Krueger was the construction firm of record, Griffin noted that he and the architects asked for separate bids from individual contractors on nearly every phase of the work, to insure that the modernization would be exactly as they wanted it and meet their specifications for the building design.

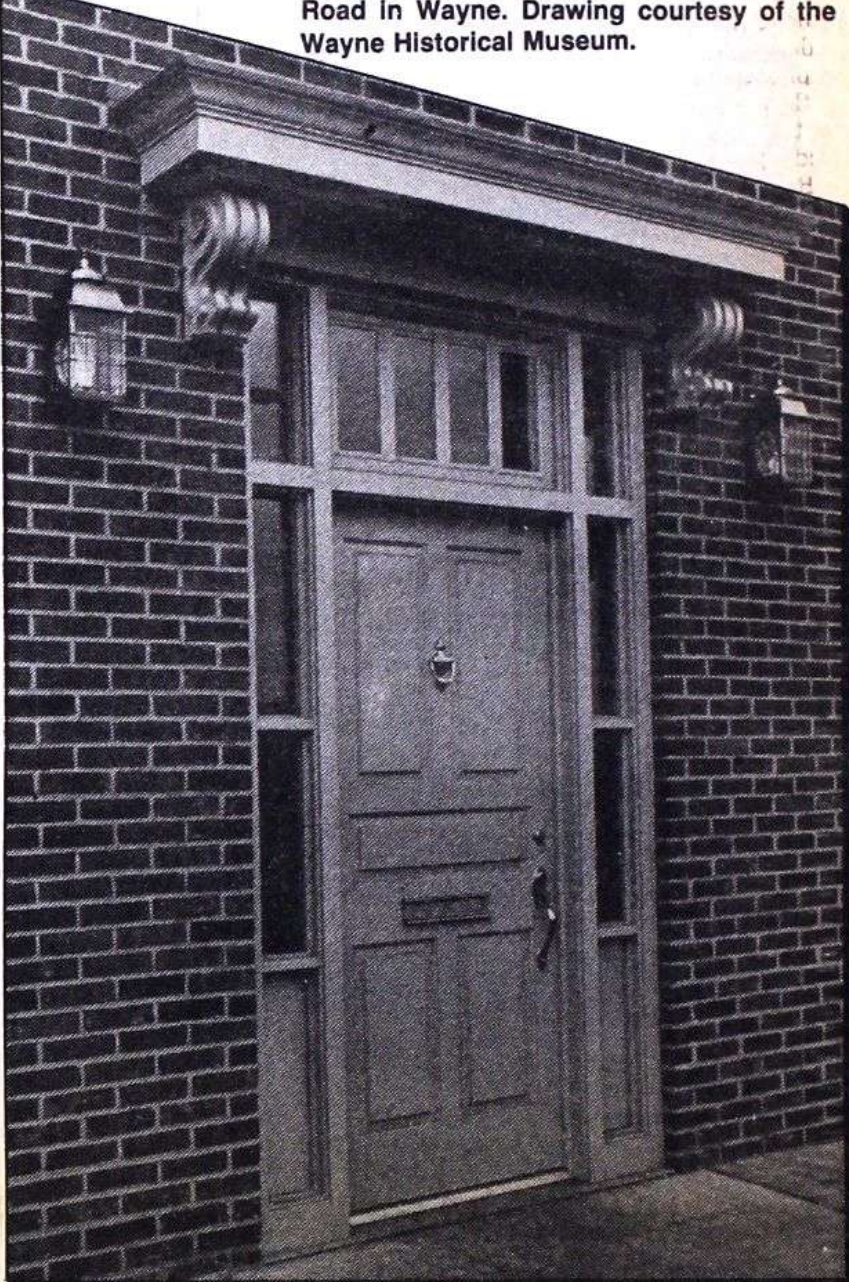

The corporate offices of Group W are also pleased, commented Regional Vice President Vince Dolan at the grand opening of the facility last week. "I'm very pleased with the results here. I personally believe in the reconstruction of old buildings rather than tearing them down. They are a reminder of our past," Dolan said.

The ancient hotel now houses the administrative, sales, local origination and complete television studio sections of Group W.

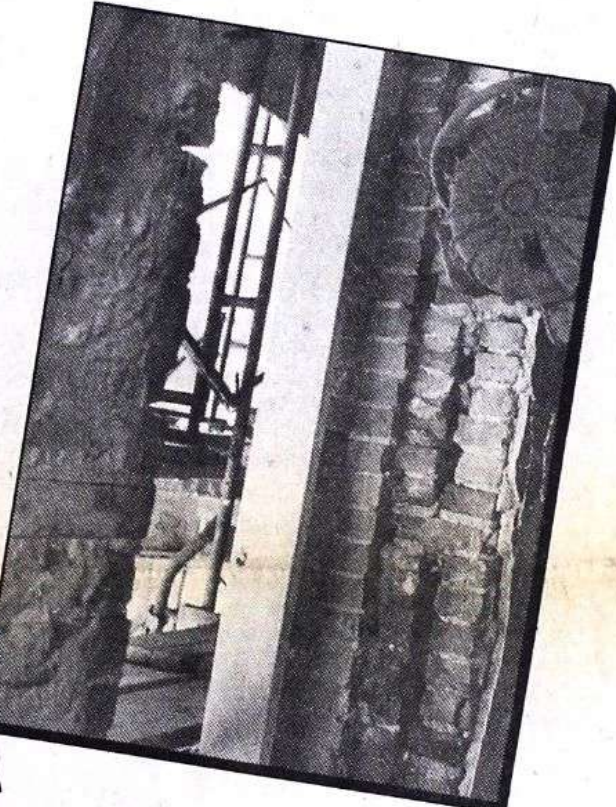

"I think it looks now very similar to the pictures of the original hotel at the Wayne Historical Museum," Griffin said. "I'm very proud of it."

The new door of the cable facility was chosen by Griffin to keep as much of the historical flavor of the building as possible, and he exercised the same care in the selection of the replica coach lights which flank the entranceway.

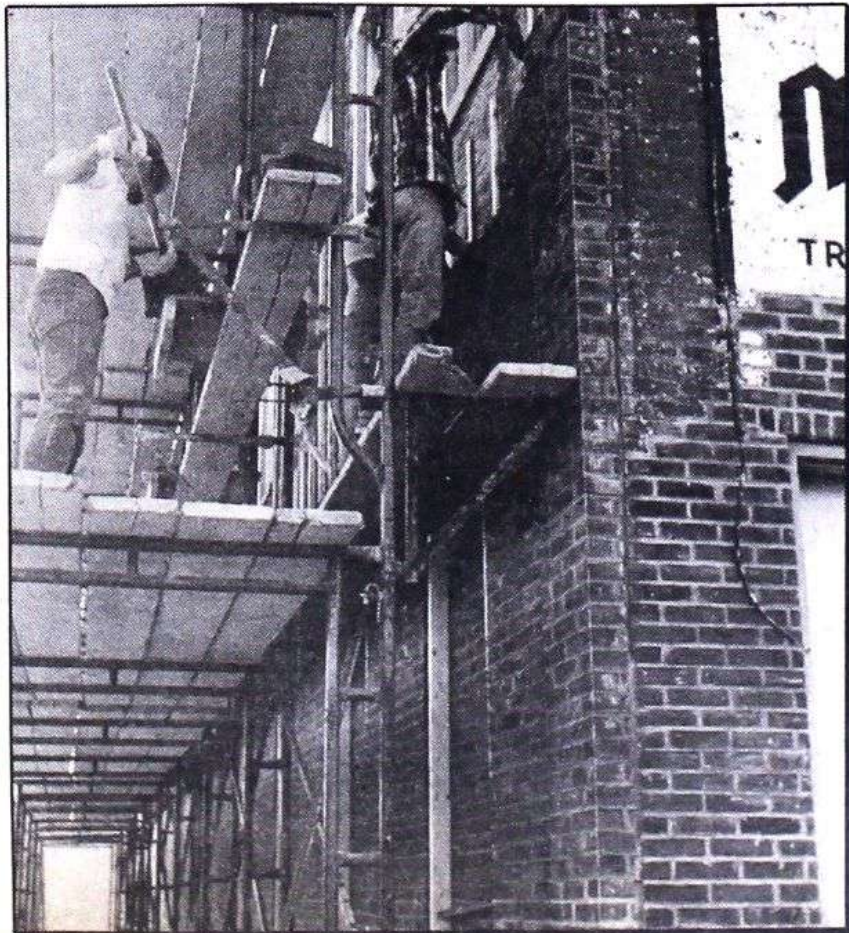

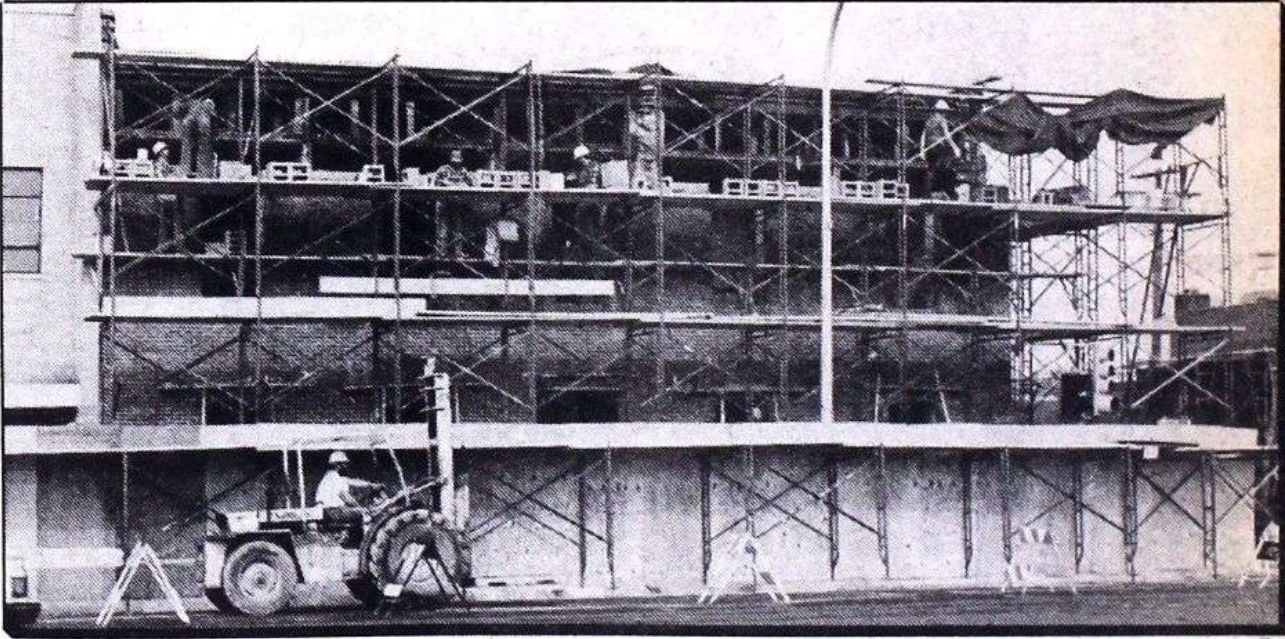

Workers labored meticulously to uncover the ancient brick first installed in late 1860 and then restore the integrity of the original design of the building.

The delicate restoration work on the building saw several weeks of workers climbing two story scaffolding as they attempted to chip away the "progress" of former modernizations of the ancient hotel.

The center stairway of the old building was completely reconstructed with new materials. The steep stairs were a part of the original architectural design and left intact by the new owners during the restoration efforts. "We kept it as much like the original as we could," Griffin said.

Relays make the difference

Wayne wins Great Lakes track title

Trailing by as much as 30 points after the field events, Wayne Memorial runners swept all three relays to make up the difference and captured the last Great Lakes 8 Conference Track & Field Championship for first year coach Bob Lynn.

"We knew that our runners would have to perform well in order to win the title," Coach Lynn said, "because Fordson did have a lot of talent in the field events. The kids did an excellent job in picking up the slack."

As they have done all year, Wayne relay teams proved that they were the undisputed kings in the conference.

"We have not lost one relay event all year long," coach Lynn added. "Also, we did surprisingly well in the distance events thanks to Gary Vallance and Keith Kieznowski."

Wayne, which finished third a year ago, piled up 165½ points to Dearborn Fordson's 126. Monroe was third with 95, followed by Taylor Center (48), Wyandotte (27), Taylor Truman (22), and Lincoln Park (12½). Because the league will be disbanded after the current school year, this was the final running of the Great Lakes 8 Conference. Most of the teams will be reunited however in the newly-aligned Wolverine "A" Conference.

Wayne did manage to win two of the six field events as Hampton Lee was the top long jumper with a 19 feet, 11 inch effort, and Tony Bass edged Fordson's Ballone in the high jump when he successfully negotiated 6 feet, 4 inches. But Fordson swept the first four places in the pole vaulting.

Lynn's Zebras picked up seven golds in the field. Marvin Parnell split the hurdles' event as he beat Taylor Center's Newman across the finish line in the highs (14.7) but lost the lows to the Taylor hurdler.

In the 880-yard relay, Lynn threw together the foursome of Parnell, Bill Howard, Shaun Boyer and Tony Bass who were clocked in the winning time of 1:33.1; the 440-yard Wayne relay team of Boyer, Hampton Lee, Howard and Bass posted a winning time of 45.4. Wayne beat Fordson for the gold in the mile re-

Rockets are at it again

Westland John Glenn's baseball season came to a sudden and screeching halt last Saturday at Detroit Cooley as the Cardinals defeated the Rockets, 7-3, to advance to the next round of the State Class A Baseball Tournament.

Cooley's Cardinals, using their quickness and taking advantage of some miscues by the Rockets, raised their record to 7-3 on the season. Glenn ended their season with a 12-10 mark.

But the Cardinals found out what 21 other opponents have discovered this season about the Rockets — they don't give up.

The 7-3 final score certainly was not indicative of how the game started out. Cass Simpson led off the game with a triple to right centerfield. He came home on pitcher Bruce Billings' sacrifice fly.

That 1-0 lead held up for as long as you can say "stolen base." Cooley not only tied the game but scored two other runs in the bottom half of the first inning to take a 3-1 lead.

Darrell Gaines reached base on an error, took third on a fielder's choice and scored on a single by Anthony Simpson. Simpson and the next batter, Tyrone Gaines, scored following a pair of stolen bases and a single by Saunders May.

Cooley added a run to that lead in the third when Simpson walked and came around to score on a single by Gaines and a fine outfield play that saw Rockets Steve Jaskolski, Mike Baydarian, and Chris Merandi combine for the out on Gaines at second while Simpson was crossing the plate.

Simpson, Cooley's starting pitcher, was keeping the Rockets off-balance, retiring seven out of the next nine batters he faced after the first inning. But the Rockets started their comeback in the fourth with two out. Cass Simpson walked, moved to third on an error by the Cooley shortstop, and scored on a double by Billings.

They pulled closer in the fifth and threatened to blow the game wide open. Tim Filary, who earlier had tripled, blasted a Simpson pitch far over the right field fence, and Cooley's lead had been cut to 4-3. For Filary, it was his first homerun of the season and one he had waited to hit all season long.

The Rockets proceeded to load the bases on a walk to Merandi, an error by the Cardinal first baseman, and a walk to Gordie Hassien. Cooley made a pitching change at this point and reliever Timothy Floyd got Cooley out of the inning with no further damage.

The Cards put the game away with three runs in the sixth as they ran the Rockets silly and goaded them into several errors.

AA Huron ousts Belleville, Romulus from district playoffs

Ann Arbor Huron made sure it will be represented in the Class A district baseball playoffs the River Rats will host on Saturday by eliminating area rivals Belleville and Romulus from district playoffs.

Behind John Coffey's five-hitter, Huron blanked Belleville 8-0 in a predistrict game, then came back and ousted Romulus 9-3 thanks to Dave Muller's 7-hitter.

Belleville's Tom Fielder said he was disappointed with his team's "stretch performance."

"We lost our last five games," Fielder noted, "so I felt we played better at the beginning of the season than we did at the finish."

Belleville had several missed opportunities to get to Coffey who loaded the bases in the second inning when he gave up a lead-off single to John Dillon then an error, and a walk to Eric Edwards put runners aboard. Coffey got out of trouble when a squeeze play erased Dillon at home and two strikeouts later erased the threat.

The loss left Belleville with a 11-14 over-all record.

Dillon was the loser as he struck out seven and walked two in a 12-hitter. Coffey moved the River Rats into the pre-districts with a five-hitter, fanning eight and giving up five walks.

Belleville placed three players on the final Suburban 8 Conference team. Dillon was named as one of the pitchers. He has a 4-2 conference record and a 1.93 ERA. Glen Arquette was picked as the first baseman. He batted a .415 for the league year, while Keith Riling was selected as an outfielder. His batting average was .312 which included 12 runs batted in.

Coach Dennis Stoh sent Matt Percy to the mound against Muller and the Romulus hurler lasted 3½ inning, struck out two and walked one. However the Eagle pitcher served up two homers which brought about his demise.

Huron got on board with three runs in the first inning, then added another in the bottom of the third. However, Romulus came back with three of its own runs in the top of the fourth as Mickey Panek fanned but reached first on a catcher's error. He was erased when Rex Boatright bounced into a fielder's choice, Rich Dybicki sliced a single and Bill Coaltrain also drilled a run-scoring single.

Then, Percy came through with a two-run double, moving the Eagles to within one run of tying the game. game.

But it wasn't in the books as Huron rallied for three more runs in the bottom of the fourth to make it a 7-3 ballgame, then picked up a pair of insurance runs in the sixth.

Romulus wrapped up the year with a 12-11 record which prompted this comment from Coach Stoh: "One of our goals this year was to have a winning season. We accomplished this. However, it could have been an even better year for us. We lost five games in the late innings when we actually had the lead. That has to be disappointing."

Next year Coach Stoh will have the services of players from the junior varsity who won 14 of their 20 games this year.

Belleville favored to capture title

Although Belleville thinclads have defeated Dearborn and Edsel Ford in head-on competition, track Coach Dave Medley views the final run for the Suburban 8 Conference championship as a "very close one."

"It's going to be a very close meet, Medley stressed, "because the talent is spread around in the league. Having won all four of our league dual meets, however, I guess you can say that we are favored."

Belleville turned back Dearborn's Pioneers 84-48 last week as senior John Fisher chalked up two key events — the mile (4:34) and the 2-mile (10:01).

The Tigers also swept all three relays which gave them an insurmountable edge over the Pioneers.

Belleville will join the newly-formed Wolverine "A" Conference next year as the Suburban 8 Conference, left with only four teams this year, is scheduled to be disbanded after the current school year.

Belleville will host the league championships on Wed. June 1 beginning with the field events at 3 p.m. The finals will be run at 6 p.m.

Belleville, Romulus bowlers 'bowl over lung disease'

Nine employees of Kelsey-Hayes, Romulus, recently won top honors in bowling competition while making a contribution to improved lung health at the same time.

The team bowled and collected pledges to support the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's (ALASEM) "Bowl Over Lung Disease" program last month.

Event coordinator at Kelsey-Hayes (K-H), Sandy Barker of Westland, announced that the group raised over $2000 to support the Lung Association's many free community services. This contribution gained the team first place honors in the program and with it, a trip to Toronto, trophies and individual prizes.

Belleville resident Jan Aberasturi led the K-H team with $700 and was named top individual overall. Aberasturi won a year's membership to Vic Tanny Health and Racquet Club. Jan Mohr, Romulus, was second on the team, second overall and won an exercise for her contribution of more than $625. Other bowlers were: Michelle Dery, Warren; Vilanne Nightengale, Southfield; Nancy Popich, Romulus; Cindy and Connie Woodrich, Romulus and Kathy Zocher, Taylor.

More than 20 teams in the tri-county area representing businesses, corporations and professional organizations raised $11,000 to support the Lung Association.

Participants were invited to a wrap-up party. Maria Ang, gourmet and proprietor of a Southfield restaurant, conducted a cooking demonstration and offered a selection of hot oriental hors d'oeuvres at her establishment. Charley Manos, Detroit News, columnist, andancy McCauley, WJBK TV-2, were on hand to help

Ms. Ang with the entertainment. Manos and McCauley also assisted Lung Association Executive Director Thomas P. Banas with the awards presentation. Trophies for members of the top three teams were awarded along with trips and prizes for top individuals and teams.

Proceeds from the bowl-a-thon will go to support the Lung Association's many pediatric programs which include Camp Sun Deer, the nation's only free camp for kids with severe asthma. Other services of ALASEM include monthly support groups for victims of emphysema, asthma, lung cancer and other chronic pulmonary diseases, various stop-smoking clinics and self-help programs and efforts to reduce air pollution and occupational health hazards.

Hertel is appointed to Huron-Clinton Park Authority commission

Commissioner John Hertel was approved by members of the Committee of the Whole, Thursday, to succeed William Kreger to the Huron-Clinton Park Authority for a six-year term.

Recommended by the County Executive, his appointment will go before the full commission next week for final action. The move will end Kreger's 25 years of service on that Authority. Commissioners will ask Governor James Blanchard to consider Kreger as a gubernatorial appointee.

Although there was some debate as to the CEO's right to make the appointment, Hertel won the committee's support handily. In accepting the nomination, Hertel said he felt the county had gotten the "short end of the stick" for a number of years since it has contributed more than 50 percent of its funding and received a minimum amount of return.

Hertel, representing parts of East Detroit, Harper Woods and the Pointes, is a former Sate Senator and was elected to the county commission for a two-year term last November.
